

Cottbus is colourful - 15. February 2019

Every year the 15. February, the day of the bombing of Cottbus during WWII, is commemorated in remembrance of the horrors of war, violence and destruction but also to remember their causes. The murderous ideology of the National Socialism, megalomania, racism and antisemitism have brought immeasurable suffering to the people.

Therefore, this day is also a reason to remember human dignity and the values on which a peaceful and caring society is build and the democracy as our political system.

The highlight of this year's event on the 15. February will be a "Sternmarsch" (Procession Under The Stars) organised as part of 'Cottbus is colourful'.

Take part!
